Privacy Policy

InMarket Media, LLC (“InMarket,” “we,” “us,” or “our”) is committed to honoring the privacy rights and respecting the privacy decisions of individuals. We believe you deserve to understand and make choices about how your data is collected, used, and shared.

Introduction

This Privacy Policy explains how InMarket collects, uses, and may sell, share or disclose personal information that we receive about you via our Services. Our “Services” means our mobile applications, third party mobile applications that incorporate our software development kit, our advertising platform (including our demand side platform), our technology, our websites, and our related products and services. As of the date of this Privacy Policy, InMarket owns and operates mobile and web-based applications called CheckPoints, ListEase, Key Ring, Subscription Stopper and Out of Milk (the “InMarket Applications”). This Privacy Policy will also apply to any additional apps that we may offer.

We partner with third party companies to help us provide our Services. As used in this Privacy Policy, “Third Party Partners” are companies who integrate with or use our Services, such as advertisers and agencies (our customers), digital marketers, data companies, and web or app publishers and platforms. Our Third Party Partners may use cookies, device/browser identifiers, hashed identifiers, or similar technologies in order to provide you with relevant advertising based upon your browsing activities and interests. This practice is sometimes referred to as personalized, targeted or interest-based advertising.

Accountability

Industry and Self-Regulatory Affiliations

InMarket is a proud member of the Network Advertising Initiative (NAI), and we adhere to the Digital Advertising Alliance Principles.

Notice & Transparency

Sources of Personal Information Collected

Information from You

You may provide information manually while using our Services, for example, by typing your name and email address, by using a social profile to register for or update an account in one of the InMarket Applications. Some InMarket Applications allow you to link to your banking or payment card accounts via a third party provider; however, we do not collect your account number or payment card number. We also collect personal information when you communicate with us, including for support or when you register for a promotion.

Information from our Services

Our Services may collect personal and device information through the InMarket Applications, our Third Party Partners' mobile applications, and our websites. Our Services and our Third Party Partners may also collect data using technology such as cookies, ad tags, and pixels. Pixels are invisibly embedded electronic images and are about the size of the period at the end of this sentence. We use cookies to store this type of information when we serve ads onto Internet browsers. Some of our partners send us information directly via a "server to server" file instead of using web technologies like cookies, ad tags, and pixels. We also collect mobile advertising identifiers (IDFA for Apple devices or AAID for Android devices), third party proprietary identifiers, ad exposure information such as URL, site name, creative, publisher, and channel, precise geolocation information, session information, operating system, internet protocol address (IP address), hashed email address, device model and settings, and related statistical identifiers. All of these technologies help us (and Third Party Partners) to deliver relevant ads, provide ad measurement and reporting, and to generate market insights.

Information from Third Party Sources

We may also collect information about you and your device from third party sources including public databases, social media platforms, data append services, third party marketing partners, data brokers, and others. The information we collect from third party sources may include categories such as demographic information, predicted interests or characteristics, and commercial information. We combine this third party data with the personal information that we have collected.

Categories of Personal Information Collected

InMarket collects, and has collected in the past 12 months, the following categories of personal information:

- (a) personal identifiers (for example, your name (either first, last or both), email address, postal address, phone number, mobile advertising identifier, persistent IP address, and persistent cookie ID);
- (b) customer records information;
- (c) protected class characteristics (for example, gender);

(d) commercial information (for example, shopping lists, purchase transaction receipts, purchase histories and tendencies). We collect your purchase transaction details when, for example, you connect your bank account or payment card with an InMarket Application or a participating partner application. The categories of data include vendor category, transaction date and time, amount, merchant name, merchant description, merchant location, financial institution name, last two to four digits of your account number, and personal finance category. However, we do not collect, store, or use consumer's actual bank account numbers or credit/debit card numbers.

(e) internet activity information (for example, information regarding your interactions with a website, mobile application or advertisement, device operating system and settings, browser type, referring website, the pages viewed on the website or application, and the application name and version, social profile data);

(f) precise geolocation information, which is a category of "Sensitive Personal Information" or "Sensitive Data" under certain state privacy laws; and

(g) Inferences drawn from personal information (for example, to build audience attributes such as health food purchaser, discount shopper, fast food customer).

Notice of Financial Incentives

InMarket offers financial incentives to consumers in exchange for voluntarily sharing certain personal information with us through websites and mobile applications we own, such as CheckPoints. In the CheckPoints mobile application, consumers can earn points redeemable in a rewards program in exchange for various activities such as sharing precise geolocation information (for example, by visiting a retail location), scanning product barcodes in a retail location, sharing purchase records, taking surveys, and sharing personal information such as name and email address. The specific instructions for how to participate and the rewards offered as incentives in each mobile application may vary and are set out within each mobile application. We collect and use the information we obtain through the InMarket Applications to serve users and customers in accordance with our Privacy Policy. We offer an incentive to consumers who provide us with information through the InMarket Applications. InMarket receives a nominal fee for certain completed surveys in the CheckPoints mobile application, which is the basis upon which we value this CheckPoints survey information. Regarding the rest of the data for which we offer an incentive in the InMarket Applications, one consumer's data has nominal value to us because in large data sets that also include data collected without incentive, the utility and value of the set is only nominally enhanced by the inclusion of one additional entry. To participate in any of these incentive-based offers you can opt in by intentionally sharing the required information through the InMarket Applications. You can opt out of participation in any of our incentive-based offers at any time. If you wish to opt out, stop submitting additional information and please submit a “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” request or a “Delete My Personal Information” request as described below in this Privacy Policy. You may also delete the mobile application.

Consumer Attributes. To generate insights regarding consumers’ attributes (for example, “Fast Food Customer” or “Pet Owner”) based on inferences from data we collect. We combine the data we collect with third party data sets that provide additional attributes. However, we do not process personal information to conduct profiling that produces legal or similarly significant effects.

Legal Compliance. We may use and disclose personal information that we collect to comply with any applicable law or regulation. We also use the personal information we collect to comply with legal process, including subpoenas and search warrants.

With your consent or with additional disclosures. We may use and disclose personal information we collect with your consent or as otherwise disclosed at the time information is collected.

To the extent permitted by applicable law, we also may use and share deidentified information without limitation. We maintain and use deidentified information only in deidentified form—we do not attempt to reidentify such information except as needed to determine that the information is appropriately deidentified.

Consumer Control

Options for Opting Out of Ad Targeting

InMarket offers consumers the ability to opt out of our use of your personal information to serve personalized ads to you across devices, mobile applications, and websites. If you don't want the information we collect used for the purpose of serving you such targeted ads, we offer a number of choice mechanisms. Please note that none of our choice mechanisms will opt you out of advertising. You will continue to receive ads but they won't be targeted by us. Your opt-out choice will be applied only to the browser or device that has opted out.

(a) Mobile OS Opt-Out. We honor the mobile device advertising ID settings for Android and Apple iOS devices. To exercise this opt-out, please visit the privacy settings of your Android or iOS device and select “limit ad tracking” \(Apple iOS\) or “opt-out of interest based ads” \(Android\). For devices with this setting enabled, we will not use the advertising ID for targeted advertising.

(b) Mobile Location Choices. If you’d like to adjust your setting regarding the use of precise geolocation information by third parties such as InMarket, you may do so via the privacy settings on your device. This can either be done globally across all apps by turning off Location Services, or you can turn Location Services off for specific apps. Mobile applications that collect precise geolocation information typically offer mechanisms in the operating system settings to control the collection and use of precise geolocation information. Please note that these choice mechanisms won’t impact previously collected precise geolocation information.

(c) DAA Opt-Out Mechanism. If you wish to opt out of interest-based advertising from third parties, visit the DAA’s opt-out page WebChoices browser opt-out page.

(d) Connected TV/Over the Top Streaming Devices \(“CTV/OTT”\). Some data we collect may be used to target ads or perform ad campaign attribution and measurement on CTV/OTT devices. You may limit ad tracking on many CTV/OTT devices; your device manufacturer may provide instructions for updating ad tracking settings. The NAI provides additional information on opting out on CTV/OTT devices and instructions for updating privacy preferences of many such devices at Connected TV Choices.

(e) Hashed Personally Identifiable Information. InMarket does not directly use hashed personally identifiable information. Consumers who wish to opt out of the use of hashed PII for targeted advertising by other companies, including our Third Party Partners, should visit the Digital Advertising Alliance’s AdChoices token opt-out page to submit a request.

(f) State Law Opt-Out Rights. Depending on your state of residence, you may have the right to opt out of certain disclosures and/or processing related to targeted advertising. To opt out, you may complete this Do Not Sell or Share My Personal Information \(Opt-Out\) form, click on the “Do Not Sell or Share My Personal Information” link provided on our website, or email us at privacy@inmarket.com.
